FIRST IN THE NATION TO MAKE CHILDREN A PRIORITY

In 1945, a group of courageous Pinellas County leaders were the first in the nation to collectively make children a priority.

At that time, few alternatives existed for troubled and dependent minors, and children as young as three and four years old were housed in adult jail.

Three early champions were Juvenile Judge Lincoln Bogue, St. Petersburg Junior League Founder Mailande Holland Barton, and Attorney Leonard Cooperman.

They drafted legislation, and on November 5, 1946, Pinellas County voters enacted the Juvenile Welfare Board Special Act into law. It was the nation's first independent board charged with guarding the rights and needs of children.

MISSION: We invest in partnerships, innovation, and advocacy to strengthen Pinellas County children and families.

VISION: All children in Pinellas County will have equitable opportunity to fulfill their potential and achieve meaningful and purposeful lives as a result of JWB and our partners.

ABOUT: For nearly 80 years, the Juvenile Welfare Board of Pinellas County (JWB) has been making children a priority, advocating for their best interests and investing to improve their futures. JWB is a high-performing, data-driven organization established by the Florida Legislature and governed by an 11-member Board. We responsibly direct community investments to ensure children are ready to learn, thrive, and succeed in homes, schools, and neighborhoods that are healthy and safe. Last year, JWB's impact budget of $126.4 million strengthened the lives of 77,000 children and families through 98 quality programs provided by 51 nonprofit agencies. Plus, tens of thousands more benefited from JWB's collaborative work focused on early childhood development, children's mental health, childhood hunger, grade-level reading, and preventable child deaths. JWB makes life-changing investments for children across six strategic result areas: Early Childhood Development, Early Childhood Development, School Readiness, School Success, the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, Strengthening Community, and Organizational Capacity.
